

CLAIMS

1. Method of creating a stereoscopic-haptic virtual environment comprising the steps of generating stereoscopic images, with active stereoscopic displays, shuttering of computer monitor or video screen display to present one image at a time to each eye of a viewer in quick succession while the other eye is covered, interlaced video display and buffered delivery of image data to different scan lines.
- 5